MEMORANDUM

TO: Case #19-826 Case File
FROM: ^{RLC} Lung Chiu, Inspector General
DATE: April 11, 2019
SUBJECT: Office of Inspector General Response to Mr. Edgecomb's Response
Case #19-826

On April 9, 2019, the Office of Inspector General received a response from Mr. Darren Edgecomb, Principal of Palm Beach Central High School, regarding the findings of OIG Case #19-826. Based on Mr. Edgecomb's admission to the finding, the OIG has determined that the Substantiated finding will remain unchanged. Mr. Edgecomb's response will be posted with the original report in its entirety.

Allegation 3:

Mr. Edgecomb explained that he signs hundreds of grade change forms each year and he would never knowingly violate and policy or commit an unethical act. Mr. Edgecomb added that "In summary, I signed each form because I was under the impression the teacher was aware of the students' completed make up work. There was no attempt to violate any school board policy. I deeply regret and apologize if that occurred. I'm more than willing to take any training to better understand district policy on this subject."

OIG Response: Mr. Edgecomb does not dispute the findings and admitted to signing the grade change forms. This statement coincides with his testimony on page 15 of the report which states "Mr. Edgecomb stated he signed the Grade Change Forms because he believed that Mr. Greenberg adhered to the grade change requirements before submitting the student's Grade Change Forms to him for final approval."

Mr. Oscar Restrepo, CIGI
Director of Investigations
Office of Inspector General

Serving as an instructional leader is a passion and an honor. I have served as an educator in Palm Beach County for the past 30 years (17 as a teacher). In addition, I have had the great privilege of serving as an administrator for the past 13 years. Student achievement for all students has always been my driving motivation. More importantly, I feel especially compelled to inspire each student to become a better person.

This incident has been absolutely devastating, mainly due to the impact it has had on my family. I'm also deeply moved by the effect it has had at Palm Beach Central High and the Wellington community. Serving as principal at Palm Beach Central High has been the highlight of my career. For the record, I would never knowingly violate any school board policy or commit any unethical act. I'm a professional and more importantly, I just believe in doing the "right thing."

I would like to briefly address the three issues that have me here today.

Grade Change Issue (Allegation)

The logistics of how to change grades have transformed quite a bit over the past few years. It has shifted from mostly paper-based to almost solely electronic. The initiation of the Student Information System (SIS) has made the process even more digital. Grade change forms are now directly uploaded to SIS and an alert appears on the screen when signing into the system. The process is now quite hi-tech and involves on-going monitoring. I sign hundreds of grade change forms each year. With approximately 3,000 students and 165 teachers, the volume is very high. Most of the recent approvals are electronic signatures and others are paper-based. When processing, initially I check for a signature (usually the teacher's) and a brief explanation. The explanations are usually similar. After reviewing all components, I then sign the document.

Any time I see that a student has either made up assignments or successfully passed a make-up assessment I'm thrilled. I see this as a great win for students and teachers. Therefore, I sign the form and move on to the next task.

I noticed the few grade change forms that were signed previously by Mr. Greenberg. He is the principal's designee. The protocol is that teachers are involved in the process. All of the explanations on the form appeared to be valid. Furthermore, I believe a few of the students were ESE or 504 (based on the explanations) and these are programs over which Mr. Greenberg supervises. I recall reading a hand written statement on the form where the teacher agreed with the change. I also remember a grade change form for a Hospital/Homebound student in which an explanation was indicated supporting grade change. As I stated, I'm pleased, when I receive documentation that students have improved and demonstrated mastery.

In summary, I signed each form because I was under the impression the teacher was aware of the students' completed make up work. There was no attempt to violate any school board policy. I deeply regret and apologize if that occurred. I'm more than willing to take any training to better understand district policy on this subject.

P-Card Issue (Allegation)

Because I worked closely with the district's Purchasing Department, I was aware of an on-going issue with the P-Card. I met with Mr. Greenberg on several occasions to address the Amazon orders. Due to those identified issues, I suspended his p-card use until he agreed to and completed additional training. After receiving confirmation from the Purchasing Department that his training was completed, I reinstated his p-card privileges.

Testing Issue (Allegation)

Mr. Greenberg has overseen testing since I arrived at Palm Beach Central. As assistant principal over testing he is knowledgeable in this area. He initiated the Cambridge International courses at Palm Beach Central High. The program has been tremendously successful in helping students take college level courses and earn scholarships. It has grown exponentially from a few sections in the early stages to approximately half of the student population taking AICE courses. I had no prior knowledge of him violating any testing procedures with Cambridge (AICE) assessments.

Respectfully submitted,

Darren Edgecomb

MEMORANDUM

TO: Case #19-826 Case File

FROM: ^{KLC} Lung Chiu, Inspector General

DATE: April 11, 2019

SUBJECT: Office of Inspector General Response to Mr. Greenberg's Response
Case # 19-826

On April 10, 2019, the Office of Inspector General received a response from Mr. Laurence Greenberg, Assistant Principal of Palm Beach Central High School, regarding the findings of OIG Case #19-826. Based on Mr. Greenberg's admissions to the findings, the OIG has determined that all three Substantiated findings remain unchanged. Mr. Greenberg's response will be posted with the original report in its entirety to include attachments provided. Confidential information included within Mr. Greenberg's response and attachments, such as his address and student identifying information, will be redacted.

Allegation 1:

Mr. Greenberg wrote "The first allegation is that I purchased items from Amazon.com using the District's purchasing credit card (P-card) without approval. Procedurally, not every purchase that was made was pre-approved by the P-card department; however, every purchase directly, or indirectly, impacted students."

OIG Response: Mr. Greenberg states that every purchase impacted students as a reason for his actions. Mr. Greenberg does not dispute the findings and admitted that not every purchase was made with the pre-approval of the P-Card Department. This statement coincides with his testimony on page 4 of the report which states "Mr. Greenberg admitted he purchased items from Amazon.com without consistently consulting with the District's Purchasing Department before purchasing the items."

The OIG has determined that this Substantiated finding remains unchanged.

Allegation 2:

Mr. Greenberg cites factors that led to grade changes, but in his final thought he admits, "In hindsight, my decisions were not 100% in compliance with district "grade change" procedures. I apologize and will govern all future actions accordingly. However, my actions were always to insure earned "grade corrections" and to do what is best for our students."

OIG Response: Mr. Greenberg admits that his decisions were not in compliance with District procedures. This statement coincides with his testimony on page 13 of the report which states, "Mr. Greenberg acknowledged that he should not have changed grades for students that he had not conferred with teachers before changing the grades."

The OIG has determined that this Substantiated finding remains unchanged.

Allegation 4:

Mr. Greenberg wrote "The final allegation is that I allowed student(s) to take the standardized AICE exams outside of the scheduled dates determined by Cambridge International Examinations. The decision to allow a student to take an AICE exam a day late was made because it was in the student's best interest. REDACTED was a graduating senior and was trying to obtain the Cambridge Diploma thus allowing him to obtain a Bright Futures Scholarship. I understood that this was a violation of the testing protocol but my intent was to assist the student in obtaining his dream of being a college graduate."

OIG Response: Mr. Greenberg does not dispute the findings and admits he violated testing protocol. This statement coincides with his testimony on page 18 of the report which states, "Mr. Greenberg admitted that he allowed REDACTED NAME to take the AICE exam after the scheduled date because the student was not aware of the date of the exam."

The OIG has determined that this Substantiated finding remains unchanged.

RE: Response to Office of Inspector General Case No. 19-826

The above referenced report lists four allegations based on an anonymous complaint received by the Office of the Inspector General (OIG) on August 28, 2018. The information I am providing in this response has been obtained from my district email account and my recollection of meetings. Additional information may be in my office at Palm Beach Central High School; however, as of Friday, March 29, 2019, I have not been able to obtain access to that information.

P-CARD USAGE

The first allegation is that I purchased items from Amazon.com using the District's purchasing credit card (P-card) without approval. Procedurally, not every purchase that was made was pre-approved by the P-card department; however, every purchase directly, or indirectly, impacted students. In addition, a majority of the items purchased resulted in a substantial cost saving for the school (Lexmark printers). Numerous items, such as used Cambridge International Examination textbooks and various testing materials were deemed to be time sensitive and therefore fell within the guidelines of when purchases from Amazon are permitted (OIG Exhibit #1). No item purchased using the P-card was ever delivered to an address other than that of Palm Beach Central High School nor were any items purchased for personal gain. Many items (ex: Ricoh Color Printer toner and Lexmark Printer toner) were repeat purchases, made after an initial approval was granted.

GRADE CHANGES

The second allegation is that I changed students' grades without following the District's grade change procedure. Palm Beach Central High School's mission and vision statement emphasizes that to be world-class citizens, our students are expected to enroll in the most rigorous classes possible.

Unintended consequences

- To accomplish this vision, for the past six years, the guidance counselors and I have spent our summer days reviewing student schedules and course requests. Often, we would find that the students were not registering for the most rigorous classes based on test criteria such as FCAT/FSA/PBPA scores and the College Board AP Potential Report as well as other data provided on EDW. If this were the case, we would modify their course registration and/or academic schedule to reflect a more rigorous course selection. Parents and students were informed that guidance counselors and administration would be reviewing and correcting student course registration sheets over the summer as relevant test data became available. This school-based procedure created an expectation that students would take the most rigorous courses possible with the understanding that if the courses became too difficult, or stressful, for the student, a schedule change would be recommended. Sometimes, the guidance counselors and I were overzealous and placed students into courses in which they were not adequately prepared.

Course Rigor and Student Stress

- Schedule changes of rigorous courses do occur in large numbers during the school year. Overall, district grade change procedures were followed to the letter. In these cases, the affected teacher and/or parents were apprised of the student's lack of success in a rigorous course and therefore the need for a schedule change to a course more suitable to the student's level of preparation.

Exceptions:

Exceptions occurred when (Appendix 2):

- Reasonable attempts were unsuccessful in securing the sending teacher's written approval on the grade change form.
- The teacher was not available (e.g. summer) and/or disagreed with the grade (the grade change is a reflection of instructional success or failure).
- Students with a 94-142 Individual Educational Plan (IEP) or 504 designations in which their IEP or 504 plans had not been fully implemented resulting in an instructional issue.
- In all cases, either the sending teacher, parent and/or a qualified professional (e.g. child study team, guidance counselor, 504 coordinator, district level ESE personnel and/or regional office administrator were in agreement of the grade correction (i.e. grade change form).

No exceptions:

Grade corrections were never made for the following reasons:

- Political request, pressure or favoritism
- Athletic eligibility
- Qualification for meritorious recognition, which the student did not earn.

Final Grade Correction Calculations:

- With schedule changes, calculating the corresponding quarter and semester grades become problematic.
- The challenge has always been to resolve a fair assessment of performance when the student has a falling or poor marking period followed by a subsequent marking period in which performance improves.
- Our school's protocol is to grant grade assessment based on "demonstration of mastery" which entails focusing on the grade in the subsequent marking period along with the final examination. This is particularly true when sending and receiving teachers' instructional assignment is completely different (e.g. an academic subject and an elective subject).

Please refer to Appendix 1 for specific information concerning the 11 student grade changes. I hope that upon your review of my information, the reader can understand that there was a logical and reasonable explanation as to why in some cases teachers were not able and/or required to sign the grade change forms. Said student grade change forms, unsigned by the teacher, represent the exception to the district grade change process and were only implemented under the exceptions listed above to help the student recover from a traumatic academic experience. At no time did I ever enter into Student Information System (SIS) and directly change a student grade. The attached matrix (Appendix 1) gives a complete and individual picture of the rationale used with each of the affected students.

CAMBRIDGE TESTING

The final allegation is that I allowed student(s) to take the standardized AICE exams outside of the scheduled dates determined by Cambridge International Examinations. The decision to allow a student to take an AICE exam a day late was made because it was in the student's best interest. was a graduating senior and was trying to obtain the Cambridge Diploma thus allowing him to obtain a Bright Futures Scholarship. I understood that this was a violation of the testing protocol but my intent was to assist the student in obtaining his dream of being a college graduate.

FINAL THOUGHT

In hindsight, my decisions were not 100% in compliance with district "grade change" procedures. I apologize and will govern all future actions accordingly. However, my actions were always to insure earned "grade corrections" and to do what is best for our students.

Please see me regarding this student. Since he was placed into your class late (missed the first two weeks) and did not read the assigned book over the summer, we will double the second nine week grade as proof of mastery for the first nine weeks.

I certainly has time to bring his grade up from its current status (68%). We have three more weeks of grades, which he will have to do well on to bring his grade up. We have just started our short stories section of the AICE curriculum and he will be doing at home reading. Please check Edline to keep up with his progress, as I do weekly reading check quizzes for the short stories. As for the test that we took, his score was extremely low. His score of a 28/50 was the second lowest in the class. The class average on the test was a 42/50. If he needs to talk about strategies for studying or get a partner to study with please have him ask me. Please keep in mind that this is a highly rigorous class that takes a lot of work. Only Studying the day before an exam, or doing work last minute will not lead to success. However, working each day on the materials we are covering is a way to excel. Please feel free to keep contacting me if you have any further questions about his progress or the class.

On Tue, Nov 22, 2016 at 11:12 AM,

I wanted to touch base with you regarding his current English grade. I have been checking Edline regularly and seen that he was doing fine until this last test. I asked him about the test just now. He said it was real hard and that he did study for the test. Too say I'm concerned is an understatement. With this 9 weeks counting as his total grade, there is a lot riding on these last few weeks of the semester. Is it possible for him to get this up? What I mean is... is there going to be enough grades left in the 9 weeks for him to get the overall grade up? I don't understand how he can study and get a 28/50. Any feedback you can give me I would appreciate. Thanks for your time and please respond to this email, as I would like to keep this between us. The Edline email goes directly to his email. Thanks and have a Happy Thanksgiving.

Thank you for your quick response and explanation. I will turn in the missing assignment. He does not wish to transfer out of your class.

Sent from my iPhone

On Mar 2, 2017, at 11:38 AM,

The homework assignment that he handed in is attached to another assignment which I haven't put into Edline yet. When the new assignment gets put in, it will change from a zero. The one from 1/17 was a literary analysis packet, if he shows it to me, I will change the grade to half credit. I talked with about the end of the nine weeks. We have three grades remaining, a quiz and a homework on Monday. And a test on the play we are reading "The 12th Night". Those will be his last opportunities to add points to his grade for this nine weeks.

If you are still concerned about his grade in this class, perhaps a switch for the last nine weeks into a different level of English is something you can talk with his guidance counselor about.

On Thu, Mar 2, 2017 at 11:18 AM,

I see that on today's Edline update that [redacted] has a 61.4 in your class. He told me that on one of the homework assignments from 1/17/17 that he received a zero on, that he spoke with you about getting partial credit as he thought he had turned it in, then realized he did not. I see he received another zero for homework on 2/21/17. Did he not turn that in? With 2 weeks left until the quarter, I am concerned about his current grade. He has recently committed to a high academic college (I'm sure they will want to see the 3rd quarter) and I do not want to see them decide to pull his admission offer because of an unacceptable grade in AICE English. I feel he probably shouldn't have enrolled in the class to begin with as it's a top English class and he's never taken that High of a level class for English. It is nothing against you or your teaching, I know that you are an excellent teacher and he likes your class, I just think he is in over his head. He's only received 1 "C" I think since starting school, let alone struggling with a "D" again.

Is there going to be time for him to get that grade up? Do we need to have a parent teacher meeting? I don't want to wait until the last minute and it's too late. I'm asking for your thoughts on the situation and what can be done to help him, so he doesn't have an issue with the college. Thanks for your time.

Hi All,

Just wanted to remind you all about assignments. As you know, she was out again this week for medical reasons. I have received a few of last week's assignments from some of you, but not all. I haven't received anything from this week either. Please forward those assignments at your earliest convenience.

Also, if you would like me to, I can arrange to have her complete her semester exams over the winter break. Please let me know how I can better support you during this rough time for her. As discussed with her, she feels as though she needs a little more preparation time.

Have a GREAT weekend.

I know Mr. Greenberg has been very busy with AICE testing and as such I am sure this has slowed down his response time to emails and phone calls.

As I said previously, he is aware of the situation and told me he would be in touch with you. Unfortunately, he did not give me a specific time or window of time as to when he would be making contact.

Mr. Greenberg can adjust the grade, if this is what he decides to do, at anytime during the school year or summer. So, the good news is you have NOT missed any deadline that would impede the adjustment of the grade.

Please let me know if I can be of any further assistance in this matter.

Hi Mr. Greenberg,

I hope you're having a great week. I haven't heard back from you regarding my inquiry about first term AICE GP/Lang Arts grade getting adjusted as we discussed on the phone. I wanted to try e-mail one last time before calling. He is working really hard in the new class he is in and I think he deserves this to be looked into. I know there are no guarantees; however I am seeking a discussion about it since it is currently the only C on his report card and we are concerned about the effect on his GPA since he is not taking a lot of weighted classes. This was a class that he and I didn't think he was ready for at the start of the year. He hung in there to the point that he had health issues and I believed carried over a low C/high D. He didn't have enough time in his new class to bring the grade up, although I believe in there he did A work. He did receive A's for every other Language Arts term though.

I look forward to your response. Thank you,

Since we're not meeting, may I also ask you as a follow-up to a possible grade adjustment we discussed on the phone for regarding his first term and experience in AICE general papers and switching to Language Arts I? Can you tell me what the criteria and procedure would be for this?

Hi Mr. Greenberg,

Can we please meet in person or on the phone asap to pursue switching out of his AICE GP Class. Being in this class is overwhelming him and affecting his health and I would like to discuss this ASAP and I will give you details in private. I've reached out to and she recommended I contact you, I'm not having the best luck communicating with I am concerned about him attending this class next week.

Sincerely,

On Monday, August 21, 2017, I

Thank you! This helps a lot and I appreciate your quick and thorough response. I am more than willing to have give it a try. He is enjoying the class so far. He does have a very high lexile but we have found that doesn't always correspond to school work (other than reading comprehension). You are absolutely correct in that middle school does not prepare for this kind of thinking which is why originally I thought pre-AICE would be good. I am excited about the possibilities for him. Good luck to your this year.

On Mon, Aug 21, 2017 at 11:14 AM, Larry Greenberg (PB Central HS) <larry.greenberg.1@palmbeachschools.org> wrote:

Good morning.

Apparently, there is some misinformation out there. Let's see if we can clear it up.

First, the goal of AICE courses is to apply rigor to the classroom in a standards based instructional plan - Cambridge University has one of the best programs for this in AICE. These classes do involve writing and critical thinking but they also include extensive reteaching and relearning by our teachers. Students from the middle school are experts at multiple choice exams but are very weak in their writing skills. AICE General Papers teachers spend a lot of time reteaching their brains to think in full sentences, not "a", "b", or "c". Students will struggle with this for a little while and then they begin to "get" it as their brain is retrained. Parents have a tougher time with this, some students who have been "A" students throughout middle school are now "B" students. We expect this as they learn how to write again.

AICE courses are directly aligned to Florida Standards, so (while students don't realize this), we are preparing them for the FSA examination that they take at the end of the year. The benefit of AICE classes is to change the way our students think - we want them to become productive in society and in the workplace. It doesn't matter what they end up doing in life - college, career, sports, technical training, etc. They will have to logically and intelligently think. The benefit of the AICE courses is that they can also earn college credit if they pass the exam at the end of the year. If they don't pass the exam, then they don't earn college credit. It does not affect their high school transcript or grade. In fact, the AICE exam grades come out long after the school year has ended.

For the 9th grade, AICE General Papers is the first writing course for our students. We are offering only two English I courses - either regular English or AICE General Papers. The logic for this is that the honors curriculum is no different from the General Papers curriculum. It does our students a disservice to not offer it as General Papers because of the GPA weighting of 6.0 (as opposed to 4.5 for an honors course).

Specifically, for he is correctly placed in General Papers. His reading lexile is very, very high - 99 percentile.

As far as the AICE Diploma - that is a benefit of the program - if a student passes 7 exams, they can earn an "AICE" Diploma. The diploma with 100 community service hours earns a student the highest level of Bright Futures scholarship for college - that's about $24,000 over 4 years (so far). This isn't the reason why we brought the program in but it is a benefit to our families. A lot of students do not have the high SAT or ACT score to qualify for Bright Futures and this way they can get the scholarship.

Guidance - give the AICE General Papers three weeks and see how _____ is going. If he is overwhelmed, then email (or call) me and we'll discuss alternatives. I'm hoping that he'll catch on quickly and begin to thrive.

As far as AICE Environmental Management is concerned, it is not necessary for him to have this year concurrently with Biology Honors. While the two courses are similar in content, it is not a requirement. We have many students who just want to take one AICE class this year (_____).

Travel hockey will take up time, and this is even more of a reason not to give him two AICE classes until he can begin to manage his time better - he'll get there.

I hope this answers some of your questions. On September 12th from 5:30 pm - 8:30 pm we are having an Accelerated Curriculum Nite right before the Open House - I'll have more information then. Hope to see you there.

Larry

On Mon, Aug 21, 2017 at 9:48 AM, I

Hi Mr. Greenberg,

I hope you had a great weekend. I am writing you seeking more information to questions I have about the AICE program. I have a son who just started 9th grade _____ and originally we were not seeking AICE courses this year but he is currently in one that was placed on his schedule. (AICE general papers) I am seeking more information since maybe some of the information I heard is not true. I heard great things about the classes and what the kids experience but also heard they involve a lot of writing and critical thinking and a lot of work. He is having a little bit of rough time transitioning into high school and has been sick due to anxiety. Although I would really like _____ to develop these skills, I am wondering if he is prepared for these type of classes this year. Although his middle school teachers signed off on advanced classes for him, I found out that they actually know very little of what the course requires and I know that he has not been challenged at school in this way so I am concerned he is not prepared. These are skills I really would like _____ to develop but these are weaker areas for him now so I don't want to overwhelm him. He is very bright but we are in the process of getting him evaluated for executive functioning skills, which he has struggled with in the past. In addition, he will likely go to a college to play roller hockey that will not accept an AICE diploma.

Can you please give me some guidance on what you would suggest for him and if he was able to get the AICE diploma are there advantages it would give to students not going to college in Florida and going to a school, "not on the list"? Of course we are not positive where he will go to school but are trying to weigh and pluses and minuses. He is also on a couple travel hockey teams so we would want to balance the amount of workload he has as well.

It is also my understanding that he would need 7 courses (with passing exams). Should he be taking two now if that is our goal?

He is currently also enrolled in Honors Biology I but not currently enrolled in AP Environmental Management. I had thought that they were required to be taken together.

I appreciate all your patience with my questions. I am willing to have a meeting or phone call but know you are super busy so thought this would be the best way to contact you.

Unfortunately as we close this school year, any grade concerns must be addressed with the teacher. I suggest you email the teacher directly and they will return your email at their convenience however, this may be in August. There was an incident in class? Was it a safety issue? Was this brought to administration before the end of the day yesterday? Again, I am unsure of what can be done at this point as school has officially ended.

and with my grade- earlier today I had a C in her class, and today I go on edline to find a D. there were no other assignments collected, except for the study guide yesterday, which was completed and handed in on time. I also noticed she gave me 10/20 for the study guide, there shouldn't have been a reason for my grade to go down.

Yes my daughter would like to speak to you in regards to a classroom situation where _____ feels the teacher has crossed the line and was purposely trying to instigate.

She verbally said in class she was "going to just bother _____ and was going thru her personally belongings.

_____ needs to talk to someone as she is very upset and also knows she doesn't deserve a D grade.

Thank you in advance for your assistance in this matter.

I'll look into the grade issue concerning the study guide. What I've read so far is that you feel that the "c" grade changed to a "d" because if the study guide grade?

As far as the incident that occurred, can you give me short version so I can determine where we go from here?

Thanks, L. Greenberg

Larry,

I am forwarding this to you as it is an issue with a teacher in social studies. The parent will be making contact with you.

Thanks,

Good morning,

Unfortunately as we close this school year, any grade concerns must be addressed with the teacher. I suggest you email the teacher directly and they will return your email at their convenience however, this may be in August. There was an incident in class? Was it a safety issue? Was this brought to administration before the end of the day yesterday? Again, I am unsure of what can be done at this point as school has officially ended.

Thanks,

I'm having a problem with _____ again. It's not only my grades. something happened in class yesterday, all the kids saw the whole thing and I would like to report it. can I explain it to you over the phone?

and with my grade- earlier today I had a C in her class, and today I go on edline to find a D. there were no other assignments collected, except for the study guide yesterday, which was completed and handed in on time. I also noticed she gave me 10/20 for the study guide, there shouldn't have been a reason for my grade to go down.

On Jun 2, 2017, at 6:43 PM, ,

I will not be available on Monday. What is the issue with your grades?

Dear Principal Greenberg,

Please open attachment in regard to reports for the end of 10th grade. We met with you right after school ended about [redacted] history teacher [redacted]. You had changed her grade to a "B" and a 4 in conduct. That did not reflect on her report when I received it in the mail.

You told us to contact you to let you know if it was not changed.

Thank you for all your help!

Dear Principal Greenberg,

Thank you for changing [redacted] grade from last year. I do appreciate your help in that matter. She explain to me it wasn't necessary to change the conduct from a 1 of 4. I would like the conduct changed on her report card as discussed so going forward it shows the proper grade.

I would also like a copy of that report card once the changes have been made I would appreciate it thank you so much and have a good day.

Warmest regards,

Hello and welcome back!

This student's parent called to remind me that you had agreed to change the 1st quarter grade to reflect the 2nd quarter grade if the student earned a high grade after the student leveled down from Bio Honors to Bio and AICE Environmental to PE,

Here are his final grades.

They would like his Bio Q1 C changed from a C (earned in Bio Honors) to an A.
They would also like his Personal Fitness Q1 changed from a D(earned in AICE Environmental) to an A.

Either the teachers are going to need to submit grade changes or you will if you have that ability in TERMS. Please let me know how you would like to proceed.
